Phonics Box

To the child, alphabets may appear Funny! Strange! Baffling! Bizarre! How then do we teach them to read, write and express themselves*?*

Well, we created the Phonics Box containing attractive colour-coded letter cards designed to make the child's first exposure to letters a delightful experience.

The Phonics Box as part of the language curriculum will help children explore and create the symbol-sound relationship of letters. Contrary to the conventional 'a' to 'z' or '☐' to '☐☐☐' sequence children will be introduced to letters in clusters. Each cluster, colour-coded differently, contains letters having distinct sounds and forms.

As the children master each cluster they begin forming simple words based on their understanding of the relationship between letter-sound. We must not rush to correct them, rather encourage them to form as many words as they can.

As your child embarks upon this amazing journey of discovering relationship between sounds and their symbols and forming meaningful and usable words, I wish you and your child a delightful adventure of learning letters and words.

UTILITY OF THE PHONICS BOX

The Phonics Box contains many activities that help children to:

1. Identify the letters and their sounds.
2. Explore letters that they learn from their environment.
3. Read simple words by breaking and blending the letters.
4. Create meaningful words using the letter-sound relationship.
5. Slowly but surely demonstrate a broader knowledge and use of vocabulary.
6. Start expressing their thoughts in simple words and phrases.
7. Show better bonding with their parents.
